THE MISSION

Rustic Mediterranean food, cooked with fire and conviction — the idea that opened Olives in 1989 and still runs every kitchen that carries the name.

The Collection

Eight concepts. One culinary vision. Each one arrives with its look, its story and a sample menu —

About Todd

FOUR JAMES BEARD AWARDS · 50+ RESTAURANTS · EIGHT COUNTRIES

Todd English started cooking at fifteen. He graduated with honors from the Culinary Institute of America, trained under Jean-Jacques Rachou at La Côte Basque, then left for Italy and came back with an idea that changed American dining: rustic Mediterranean food, cooked with fire and conviction. Olives opened in Charlestown in 1989 with fifty seats and a wood oven; within a decade it was a global name.

Four James Beard Awards followed — along with television, cookbooks, restaurants in eight countries, and a generation of cooks who came up through his kitchens. Today he runs the plays he invented through The English Hospitality Group: from Walt Disney World to Bali, a 24/7 food hall in Abu Dhabi, and a residents-only concept rising sixty-two stories above Miami.

THE CONCEPT

HIDDEN BEHIND VELVET. FOUND BY THE GLOW.

Jade is an intimate supper club and late-night lounge blending refined Asian influences with modern luxury — inspired by Tokyo's after-hours culture, private supper clubs and old-world glamour.
